

The passing of time.

Shifts in perspective.

New personal convictions.

This is why I've officially parted ways with the project's past discography.

---

I would like to state for the record though that I am most definitely proud of what was accomplished during this past era. And my sincere thanks and gratitude goes out to all the people who helped produce these releases.

Furthermore, it is perfectly okay with me if people still want to keep listening to these older tracks, as these releases will still be considered canon to CHANGELINGS' full discography.